A. BOATHOUSE RULES – Changes noted in BOLD print.

1. All boathouses must abide by all health and safety regulations of the Corps of Engineers.

2. Boathouse Connections: It is the responsibility of each boathouse owner to maintain his boathouse in a safe and secure condition. The following recommendations apply:

- a. In addition to each appropriate boathouse standoff, there be deployed a sway brace consisting of a minimum 1/4" stainless or galvanized steel cable with an integral spring tensioner or other type of "snubber", connecting each side of the boathouse to an appropriate spot on the dock. The sway brace shall be connected to the outside corner of the boathouse or no closer than 1/3 the total length of the Boathouse from the outside corner. This device shall be mandatory only on isolated boathouses as the proximity of "clustered" boathouses precludes their effective deployment. (added 6-06-06)
 - b. The sway brace when required shall be tensioned by an integral spring and turnbuckle so as to be visible throughout its length at all times to facilitate visual inspection. (added 6-06-06)
 - c. There shall also be deployed a set of front cross-bracing consisting of a minimum 1/4" stainless steel or galvanized cable which cross-connect both standoffs to the dock and boathouse. These shall be tensioned by a turn-buckle in such a manner to allow no more than one inch (1") of lateral boathouse movement. This will also serve to maintain visibility throughout its length to facilitate inspection. (added 6-06-06)
 - d. All boathouses shall continue the use of the safety chains. Safety chains shall, as a minimum, be 3/8" galvanized steel chain secured by a minimum 1/2" galvanized steel bolt or equivalent satisfactory to the Vice Commodore. (added 6-06-06)
 - e. Owners of all boathouses that already have some form of these devices in place shall promptly bring them into compliance regarding integral springs or turnbuckles and proper tensioning. No sway brace or front cross-brace that descends into the water or otherwise becomes hidden will be allowed. (added 6-06-06)
 - f. Owners of boathouses that do not have these devices in place or have only a portion of these devices shall promptly bring their boathouses into compliance by adding the required elements of the recommended sizes, positions, and materials. (added 6-06-06)
3. All boathouses connected to the club water supply must provide a shut-off valve outside the boathouse. It will be the boathouse owner's responsibility to drain all water pipes, hot water tanks, and etc., in his boathouse in the fall of the year.

4. Plans and specifications for boathouse structural modifications must be approved by the Board of Directors before construction is authorized.
5. Electrical meters are the property of boathouse owners and shall be the owner's responsibility to be kept in good operating condition.
6. Enforcement. The Vice Commodore shall twice yearly perform a visual inspection of the boathouses. Deficiencies will then be discussed with the boathouse owner with a letter written, copy to WWYC files. This is in accordance with his duties as stated in the bylaws.
